

UNION MEN TO PROTECT SHOPS AGAINST FIRE

Labor Officials to Assign Powerhouse Engineers to Plant

In order to furnish adequate fire protection during the strike of the employees at the Santa Fe railroad shops, the railroad company and union officials have agreed to assign one of the striking power house engineers in the plant. This is done entirely through the volition of the labor union officials and merely was decided in order to prevent any destructive occurrences in the Santa Fe shop equipment during the duration of the strike. It was said today.

To Make Strike Plans

A meeting of the shop employees who are ordered to cease work tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in accordance with the orders for a general railway shop strike issued yesterday by the international officers of the railway employee department of the American Federation of Labor will be held shortly.

The date and time have not been announced by the local labor union officials. At the meeting plans for the strike, and assignment of picketing and other strike protest actions and other details for the promotion of the strike will be decided today.

A plea to the employees of the shops, including the six shop divisions, machinists, boiler makers, blacksmiths, sheet and metal workers, etc., who were called to work last night by the Santa Fe railroad asking the men to remain at their position. The hullum, which was signed by E. A. Lehman, general manager of the western lines of the Santa Fe railway system, was posted just now in the local shops.

Railway Appeal to Workers

The bulletin emphatically stated that the alleged grievances of the railway employees unions were not against the men. Protection and safety had suffered, indicated board findings and that the Santa Fe railroad had the best interests of their workers at heart. The bulletin read as follows:

Enclosure of Six Shop Crafts Mechanical Department.

"An advised that strike order has been issued by your leaders effective, Jan. 1, 1922, July first. I beg that you will count the cost before complying with this order. The strike is not one against the Santa Fe railroad but against the finding of the national States railroad labor board, a national representative of the people of this country. When the labor board has made your wages the Santa Fe promptly obeyed the order.

Now that deflation following the great war is necessary it is an economic necessity that you shall assume your share of the burden as awarded by the labor board.

If you leave your work you will bring greater suffering upon yourselves and those dear to you. You will sever relations with the company whose officers have your best interests at heart and will forfeit all rights under the pension and death benefit plan which you have invested in your welfare have provided."

Sheriff Ready for Strike

According to the local traffic officials of the Santa Fe system, there will be no disturbance of the train schedule on account of the shop employees' walkout. "The trains will be kept moving as always," stated one of the local railroad officials today.

Antonio Ortiz, sheriff of Bernalillo county, this morning stated that in the case of any disturbance during the event of the pending strike his force could adequately cope with any violence or disorderly occurrences.
